

Wisdom Uncreate

The world was hungry for the successful merging of science and spirituality. Science is blind and lacks spirituality. Spirituality enables science to have a clear vision of the future. There is a need to embody humanism and pragmatism imparted by eternal universal tuning. We need an embodiment of the sanity of the outlook and wisdom of life to guide mankind, without which we tend to lose hold over supreme human values. We need an immortal foundation deeply embedded in the sacred tune of the eternal cosmic Void that can act as a bridge between the Oriental and the Occidental, between the ancient and the modern, between the internal and the external, and between the beauty and the truth, the roots of which strike deep in the vivid realization of the ultimate reality. The light of Supremes' vision clears away all fissiparous tendencies, divisions and strife, and processes of decay and disintegration, ultimately leading us to reach the fulfillment of human perfection by transforming us from an ordinary creature to a sacred being. The unison between vision and action seems to be the most important factor in the present social context. Aimless, hectic, and hustling activities that lack guidance from the absolute steady light of spiritualism will lead to barren results. Amidst all spiritual disputes and philosophical unrest there arrives in the spiritual landscape 'The Theory of Reality' in the sense of the highest spiritual status and freedom mankind can attain, the highest and the greatest spiritual wisdom, the 'wisdom uncreate,' the end point of all knowledge. Similarly, contemplation and meditation, however valuable for a fruitful life, remain truncated unless they are made to animate and inspire all outward activities. Without harmony between our outward and inward activities, we tend to be lost. Sacred knowledge renders freedom from adversaries, compensating for our inadequacies, and repairing imperfections in all our trials and afflictions. The Supreme Power sustains and strengthens us through His grace, and by adoring and admiring Him, we get the opportunity to tap into the collective divine wisdom of the universe and may be beyond. Meditation is nothing but seeing reality vividly and acknowledging it with bare honesty. Souls of both the giver and recipient are linked through love that enables the giver to share wealth and prepares the recipient to receive it gracefully. Being honestly attentive to the blue sky above which is unspoiled by meaning, unallied by any definite form can speak to our soul in a million different ways.
