

Boundless Void

When we talk about the Void Space, it instinctively evokes the question –”Why is this creation?” Why did the created matter come? Everyone has come from the Void or Nothingness and shall blend into the Void again. Creation is always talking about this Nothingness. The progress that the creations undertake by marching towards fulfillment, is merely to maintain eternal motion. This is indicating that there are innumerable things in the stream of creation with multiple forms, multiple attributes, all seem to be originating spontaneously through the transformation process at its own pace. The created objects when moving at its own pace, within the womb of the Great Void, seem to exist like innumerable excavated matter in the form of existence or non-existence. When created matter has emerged from the Void in description of that “nothingness”, then it is considered as their existence. If a matter is proved to exist, then the question arises as: what is there, where is it located? The Great Void within this everlasting Space has not committed such a mistake. As the existence of emptiness cannot be proved in reference to any material, it has expressed itself as the Void in contrast with the existence of material objects. What a wonderful, strange elucidation! Strange enough, in every object it is singing its own absolute song! The Great Void Space is being described in this way to ease our comprehension! It is a way to personify the Void. This creation is from the Void. Thus, within the matter from the Void, there is the impression of the Void itself, at every moment the attributes of the Void are being reflected. The Void cannot be described by any narration; neither can it be illustrated with any adjective. The Void is a description by Himself. The Void cannot be described by any instance, but the knowledge, intellect, judgment, and the consciousness that are in these created matter in the Void, the qualities those are perceived by our senses, all these come from the womb of the Void. There are so many beings in this living world, multiple such identities, multiple expressions, those have no beginning and no end. This is the great form of the Boundless Sky. There are so many suns, moons, stars, and planets to garnish its garden. There is no terminal point of anything. Everyone is working in the same way within their orbits. Is there anyone who understands where the beginning is and where it terminates? Space is like a huge entity, and all the creatures in the created world are working like machines. Each one is well-networked with each other, they are tied to each other. How can we pay homage to the Void that has no beginning and no end? In the state of endlessness, He remains formless and has the name ‘The Void’, even though He is thought to be present, but He remains as if He is absent. From this formless emptiness, the shape that is emanating, that form, that shape and the sketches, whatever we see, hear, every moment we essentially get a glimpse of that Formless. Yet, these forms are in motion. Whatever we see and feel in this living kingdom, everything is alive and kicking. How is it possible that consciousness emerges from Emptiness? Everything in this Boundless Void is mysterious. Amidst all these hints, whom shall we touch, whom shall we talk to? He is beyond the reach of thought, intellect, knowledge, and judgment. As the fragrance of the flower spreads, so does our knowledge, intellect, judgment, conscience, mind - all float in the Space at their own pace. Wherever we look, we find the Void. All vision, listening, romance and wars happen through The Void. We consume the content of Void, on the contrary Void absorbs everything. Thus, we are lost in it. However, as all living beings, thirst for knowledge and wisdom emerge from The Void Space. We must contemplate on the Void repeatedly and meditate upon the Void. In every substance, in every particle, the Void is there with the presence of eternal melody. All have been resolved in the same manner. So, we cannot play the harp without the tune of Void. Apart from meditating and imbibing Him, no other pursuit can take place in this realm. This living world is created from the Void. So, at every moment the presence of Void is felt by the matters created from The Void. Every entity in this living world is revealing the Void. They are also expressing that everything is created from the Void. Everything that is revealed in this manifested world is also empty, as everything comes from the Nothingness. The sense of realization originates from The Void, the feeling and consciousness comes from Him, the power to judge the good and bad also resides in it. So, it would not be wrong to consider the Void as Conscious Being. The Void is there forever. The consciousness also exists forever. As the Void is filled with consciousness, it is possible to have all the finest artistry in Void. It is not known where and how that ever consciousness exists. But if there is no superconsciousness amidst the Void, it would not be possible to create such conscious creations. The emptiness that is beyond our grasp, out of search, through the creation we recognize the consciousness of Void, Who proves that even if He is empty, He is full of consciousness. So instead of imagining heaven and hell, our target should be directed towards the Void. There is no deity and no worries of virtue or vice. Every living thing in the living world is in progress, being shielded under the Void. However, it is a matter of significance, how many are in the thought of the Void. When the matter created here is only pointing to the path of the Void, then we should move forward following that path as the truth finder. If consciousness, mind, soul, intellect can all come from the Void, then everything can happen with the thought of the Void. Therefore, we should be in meditation, in search of wisdom and pure love with the thought of the Void. We need to think deeply in all situations that we are moving towards the Void at our own pace with consideration, mind, knowledge, intellect, and judgement. Where there is no talk on deities, no gratification, no liberation, no rest, no refuge. Through our mind we will run at such a fast pace as if we are running millions and billions of miles altogether, with many moons, suns, planets, stars passing by our sides. We will have no attention to anything, but we will just be able to move even faster with our mind through the Void Space. There is no taste, no form, no odor and no feel, nothing. Only there is movement towards the boundless. As the planets, stars, move towards the endless day after day, months after months, and years after years, we will move in a similar manner. In this way, within the Void Space if we move forward on the path of consciousness, we will gradually sink into the depths of consciousness. Today's emptiness will be full on that day. It will become Void again, as the Void can never be filled. As we move forward on the path to fulfillment, our storehouse of awareness will be full once and again indicating the Void. The day our 'body vessel' becomes fully aware, we will realize that all creations are from the Void and the Void is from the creation. So, become the traveler in the Void path, play the body-harp ('Dehabeena') in that eternal tuning ('Mahasura'). One who will realize that eternal tuning, will be the real master of all melody. Let us play that eternal tune, and will know everything. It is as if Space is indicating to know everything. This path of eternal space ('Mahakash') is the only path. So, always pursuit and meditate upon - "Dhayet Shunyam Aharnisham"²⁵.
