

Supreme Void

Everything in this universe is controlled through a well-construed system. However, this entire ordinance belongs to the crown head. Who is at the root of the law of creation? Which constitutional force drives the Supreme Creator of the universe? Who veils HIS presence behind this well-marshaled universal order where everything is taking place so flawlessly?

Who controls this cosmic society? He, Himself, is regulated by which law? The progenitors of this creation cannot be explored. It can never be ushered to our realm as to who is the Highest One in this creation. Even after a consistent and meticulous search across heavenly bodies, one can never trace the existence of that Venerable One. However, even if we are unable to discern HIS presence in this creation, our strivings and comprehension level can help us bring this to the sphere of solutions. It is impossible to explore the details of this universe, and it is also not needed. However, we must observe the main thread until it reaches the root or origin. However, we cannot trace who is the chief mastermind behind the root of this creation. We need to learn this with utter mindfulness that the supreme emptiness or the vast firmament is the source of our sustenance, which does not constitute any illustration or description and is everlasting, limitless, and never has any beginning or conclusion. No one has designed such a vast, endless sky. Is this the ever immeasurable Void, Who remains since inception and will remain perpetually?

This emptiness is the absolute and ultimate identification of the Supreme. This immense Void serves as the foundation for everything that is perceptible in this world. Everything has been imprinted within this emptiness. The vast ocean, mountain hills, rivers, planet stars, and the entire living kingdom are all inscribed within this vastness. All planets and stars were sheltered under this emptiness. If we regard this immense emptiness as the prime source of the Great Father, then we shall have nothing to utter, as we all have been sheltered under this never-ending Void. According to the law of this creation, this is a rational thought process of judgment. Amidst this emptiness, everyone has been imprinted. Hence, it is natural for everyone to consider the influence of the Void. For this reason, one cannot find the inner self. We fail to pinpoint who is actually listening, eating, tasting, and breathing at every moment inside us. This is the real identification of the Supreme Being, as He can never be detected. It is only imaginable to conceive this Great inestimable emptiness⁵.
