

Equity of Universal Resources

Every living entity is composed of identical elements, and every soul is entitled to identical privileges and can reach the highest attainable stage from every perspective of creation. They are equal in all respects. They are entitled to equal rights and deserve equal opportunities and privileges. Every living being comprises five basic elements: air, water, fire, earth, and ether. Since all living entities have identical ingredients, there can never be any discrimination from the rights of opportunity. The universe is tied up with one vintage: an ancient universal tune that is very much alive and mature. Therefore, every individual born on this planet was sent with the necessary arrangements to survive. Therefore, all scarcity was man-made, and those who created such scarcity needed to be eliminated from society without hesitation. The universal tune that connects every creature to the creation is very mature and alive and makes appropriate arrangements for everyone before sending them. However, if the vintage tune is highly advanced and intelligent, it should be able to control the excess population that has taken birth on Earth. The ancient vintage tune emanated from Mother Nature, who is the embodiment of strength and courage and owns precious universal resources, should be cautious in ensuring that the universal resources reach the children of the Creator. The universal vintage tune should have been more responsible for ensuring that the incapable demons were not allowed to win over her universal tune to create disparities in the distribution of resources. A child born alive and mature does not necessarily mean that it is growing with a highly advanced and sophisticated intelligence.
