

Love Calibration

Those whose lives revolve and evolve only around God. The universal tune is always placed on the highest pedestal. Thakur came to Earth as an ordinary worker and applied His spiritual powers as a gift from the universe. The question of maintaining records never arises because of these visualizations. While maintaining His universal records on Earth, He had to be extremely cautious not to misuse any of His powers, as the power belongs to the Universe. Misuse or abuse of government resources is considered a crime; similarly, if the powers are not our own and they are of the universal government, then any misuse of power gets one's image and records tarnished. Both the Creator and the Creation are tied with the same universal ancient tune referring only to the God of all the Universes, and the strength of the bond lies in the hands of the god-seeker. God gives us love, and as His children, we give loyalty to Him to make things even and maintain position with absolute firmness. Our Thakur maintains His universal record of Himself as accountable and answerable to the universe. Our living God is an evolved God who is greater than God's absolute. An evolving God is always present and beside us, whereas an absolute God is the future and always ahead of us. While we can see the former in full glory beside us, the latter is always seen in the partial state in glimpses, as further development is required to see Him in greater proportions. However, this love cannot be measured or weighed. True love is like light; the moment it ignites dispels every iota of darkness, and occupies its place, pervading its entirety.
